Approximately high school students from to

Public Schools will travel to to attend Pull Your Share educational noxious weed pulls. The students will work with land management professionals from the U.S. Forest Service and Jefferson County Weed District. The students will learn about the harmful effects of noxious weeds on Montana's environment and how to reduce and eliminate noxious weed infestations. The students will install Pull Your Share signs and learn to identify and pull spotted knapweed and houndstongue. Students will also learn about career opportunities in land management fields.

The students and their teachers will be encouraging all Montana recreators to Pull Their Share of spotted knapweed each time they are out enjoying Montana's wild and domestic lands. Please see attached itinerary with directions and attached map.
